

Thoughts to Ponder

Now is the Time

The excitement and expectation of change stirs the air today. There are many changes going on in many places on Earth: change in governments, change in lifestyles, change in climates, and change in the DNA, the cells, and the consciousness of Earth mankind. That is a lot to adapt to. But with it comes a great deal of promise and hope for the people and all living beings on the planet. Therefore, it is a time for celebration, not confusion.

We are fast approaching the end times: the end of war, corruption, judgment, disharmony, violence, sickness, and, death for those who have chosen to leave the trials of the past and enter into a new level of living or being in the new age to come. All have been given a choice, and most have made their choice, on a conscious or subconscious level. For a short time the choice to ascend into a higher state of consciousness is still available. But the cycle is ending.

There have been many opportunities for humanity to make this choice, but this is the first time Mother Earth herself has chosen to go into a higher level of frequency in order to survive. She made this choice, knowing she might be leaving many of her beloved occupants behind, but also knowing that neither she nor they can continue to survive in the malfunctioning status of world societies. It is her strong desire to take her children with her. However, those who display the characteristics listed above cannot survive in the higher frequencies of the higher realms. Only those whose vibratory rates are compatible with the love energy of those realms can enter. This is not a judgment; it is a matter of physics.

So what it boils down to is choosing love over hate, integrity over corruption, tolerance over judgment, peace over war or violence, and harmony in every aspect of life. Sickness and death were generated by mankind. Living in the light of love will overcome both.

The new American president has spoken of “the urgency of now,” as voiced by Martin Luther King. That same urgency of now can be applied to one’s preparation for living in the Golden Age to come. Time is getting very short. Humanity is at the doorstep. St. Peter will not be there to tell you that you can or can’t enter. It is all up to you. Now is the time to adjust your thought patterns, your belief systems, your words and actions and state of mind. Again, we paraphrase a slogan from the recent presidential campaign. Do you want eight more eons of the status quo? It is time to change!

You have elected a man who has come, not only to “fix” America but whose values will turn the world back toward the Light. And we say to the world:

Yes, you can! Yes, you can! Yes, you can!

Humanity's March

The flame of passion now grows strong as fervor peaks among the throng
whose cry for unity rings loud, awakening the sleeping crowd
to oneness, peace, and love for all.

It's time for change, so heed the call of those who seek for love and light
and have a future in their sight:
a world of peace and harmony,
who see in all humanity
the need for self esteem, respect—
no more to suffer from neglect—and knowledge of each other's worth.

It's time to give this theme rebirth.
So let's proclaim throughout the world:
The flag of freedom has unfurled.
We all are equal; we are strong.
United, we will join the throng.
We are connected; we are one.
The new world era has begun.
A new Earth waits, so take the helm
and steer the way to Heaven's realm.
