

Thoughts to Ponder

Faith is Your Forte

January 2010

www.jeanwarner.com

Did you know that you are being manipulated into fear? Fear is the greatest tool for those who are grasping for power and control. Fear weakens resolve, destroys confidence and produces vulnerability. Instilling fear among the masses is the strongest weapon a controller can use. Today the controlling ones who are seeing their influence recede are relying on every fearful situation they can cultivate and maintain, be it terrorism, pandemics, economics, or provoked “natural” disasters, all of which are being orchestrated and exploited by the dark forces who for eons have manipulated governments throughout the world for their own self-indulgence.

The antithesis of fear is faith, faith in oneself, in others, in a higher force, or in a divine direction for mankind’s evolution. Faith, like fear, is a magnet. It sets a pattern for others to follow. It promotes confidence and action yet provides a peaceful calm in the face of adversity. Observe the strength and fortitude of the Haitian people as they roam the streets of tragedy while singing their prayers to keep up their spirits. Stoically, they maintain their focus of helping each other. The inspiration they demonstrate flows around the world and will be a strong force in changing a fearful civilization.

One might say that faith is an attitude, but it is more than that. It is an inner knowing that all is in divine order, which comes from an acknowledgment of an invisible power choreographing all that occurs in one’s life. Knowing that one is connected with that force magnifies one’s faith. And when one realizes that he is not just in tune with the force but an aspect of it, all fear will be released. He will know that the power within him is who he is, that he is eternal. Then even his greatest fear, the fear of death, will vanish.

Many have advanced to the point of acknowledging the Source of all that is. The next step is connecting to it. This is intertwined with the recognition of the oneness of all things. Know that everything that is, every living being, is energy molded into form. You are an inseparable part of that energy, for energy cannot be divided into parts and pieces. Even the space between the “parts” is energy connected to itself. Once you realize that you are a part of that great field of energy you call God, or Jehovah, or whatever name you like to use, you will know that there is nothing to fear. You cannot be destroyed, you can only be transformed.

You are now in the process of seeing yourself and your world in a state of transformation. It is a part of the great plan initiated by the Force, the All that Is, and it is following its determined path.

Of course there are many paths to the One, and each of you has the choice of which one to take. Some are more direct than others, and you get to choose which path you wish to tread. You have already made choices on the soul level that you know not of, but always you can opt to change course.

What does this have to do with faith? “All Roads lead to Rome” as the saying goes, so you can’t get lost. But you can choose the rocky or the easy road. The easy road is filled with love, so, of course, you will have to be loving if you wish to follow it. So make your choice and have the faith, the knowing, that you will get to your chosen destination no matter what. However, the road called love will be much quicker and more comfortable.

So do not let fear get in your way. Fear breeds lack of confidence, illness, anger, antipathy, and so on. All negative emotions come from fear. As your former president has said, “You have nothing to fear but fear itself.” Replace it with faith. Start with realizing who you are and knowing that you and your brothers and sisters are one. The flame of God is in all.

The fearful ones need to be helped. They need you and others to teach them who they are, to guide them into discovering their connection to their Source. More than anything else, they need to feel loved. Show them compassion, but do not let them drag you down. If ones are not responsive to kindness, walk away. Allow them to follow the teachings of their own choices and know that all is in divine order and under the guidance of a higher power.

Fear breeds fear. Love breeds love. Which will you choose to breed?