A Message from Sananda

www.jeanwarner.com

Lord Sananda, the group gathered here are focusing on the life and teachings of Jesus. Do you have a message for us? Would you like to clear any of the misconceptions written about you at this time?

Greetings, Workers of the Light:

I am he whom you call Jesus. As you know, my universal name is Sananda. In the life on Earth that you are most familiar with, I was known as Jeshua, which was my name in Aramaic, my native language.

I came as a Messenger from the Most High to teach Universal Truth and to bring my love and my light to mankind on Planet Earth. I was born fully aware of my mission. I was one of many messengers sent to various sections of Earth, during many eras, to help bring humankind on Earth out of the darkness and into the Light. My incarnation as Jeshua, was carefully planned and structured long before my actual incarnation.

Mankind had descended into a seemingly hopeless web of darkness in which they could not release themselves. Through the grace of the Father I was allowed to come and try to untangle the grip with which the dark forces had ensnared the planet's human population.

The plan was twofold. One was to carry the Light and let it inspire, uplift, and support those struggling to overcome. The other part of the plan was to educate the masses regarding the Father's true love for his children and all living things and to show them the path back into the Light.

I devoted this brief span on Earth to fulfilling this mission, which I had volunteered to perform.

The plan was carefully laid out. Those volunteers who were assigned as my parents, my apostles, and my teachers were also well aware of the importance of this effort to bring Earth mankind up out of the abyss. We did not expect instant results for the masses but knew we were lighting a flame that would lay the foundation for future events. A number of Ascended Masters played their part in supporting the program, both on and off the planet.

My teachings had to be geared to the understanding of the people of all walks of life at that time. The messages I brought were passed by word of mouth from one generation to another and were often altered in the process. But the Light that was radiated was pure and provided an understanding that could not be misconstrued. This light was also passed from one to another and carried forth to the present time, even though my words were often misinterpreted and mistranslated. My legacy lies in the faith, hope, and promise that have been carried on through the ages, waiting for its time to germinate. Therefore the details of my birth, life, and death can lie in the hearts of the people to be revealed at the proper time.

Wherever the words I left reflect love, unity, joy, and brotherhood, they will inspire hope and direction to those who read or hear them. The exact wording and details will soon be revealed wherever their misunderstanding has brought division among you. Clarification at this time, as in the past, would only further divide those who see only the words and do not comprehend the message.

Currently, our focus is upon awakening the people to the point that they are ready to receive the Universal Truths as they are known in the higher realms. Our focus, therefore, once again, is to spread love and light throughout your world. If you are able to process my teachings through your heart, the words are not important. Listen with your heart, not your mind, and you will find that all teachings from the many Messengers your Father has sent to Earth are basically the same: Brotherly love, Compassion, Gratitude, Integrity, and the Oneness of All.

May the love, peace, joy, and harmony of the Father be with you all,

I Am Sananda

Promise

The rains have come.
The sky is overcast.
Tiny drops of promises
are misting the Earth.
The darkness heralds hope.
The dampness brings new growth.
Around the corner, life is swelling
within the bosom of Mother Earth.
Look to the clearing.
Watch for the rainbow.
Rejoice! And know that all is well.
